

GRESOL CULTURAL

A channel for accessing the Poble-sec neighbourhood's culture and community life

The Gresol cultural programme promotes joint work between the cultural facilities, organisations and schools in Barcelona's Poble-sec, by jointly carrying out unique, long-term projects integrated into the academic curriculum.

By starting from a community approach and promoting dialogue between cultures, work involves harnessing the potential that the area offers, through the resources of their facilities, organisations, collectives and agents generating different forms of expression and ways of interacting with the environment. The projects' central agents are children and young people working from participatory methodologies through art and culture.

The Gresol cultural's final goal is to ensure that students and their families are connected to the neighbourhood's cultural life. An initiative that has been established as a tool for overcoming inequalities in access to culture and community life.
