SAMBORI

Promoting culture as a social-transformation tool generating educational opportunities and against school segregation

A project that promotes the production of collective artistic- and cultural-creation and authorship projects, with the aim of fostering emancipation in this field, feelings of community belonging and use of the Catalan language. Sambori champions culture as a social-transformation tool generating educational opportunities and against school segregation.

Sambori aims to speak to the country's children and youth, in particular those in more vulnerable situations, by influencing schools that are more complex and with more underprivileged contexts. Sambori helps students to find a channel for expressing their voices, creating synergies not just between the various members of the educational community but also with other organisations in their environment to create a base cultural fabric.
